World's Largest Iceberg, A23a, Runs Aground Near South Georgia Island

Top 10 Current Affairs Questions of Today - March 10, 2025

The world's largest iceberg, A23a, has run aground near South Georgia, a British overseas territory. Scientists are monitoring its impact on local wildlife, as it may disrupt feeding routes for seals, penguins, and seabirds. However, as it melts, A23a could also enhance ocean productivity by releasing nutrients that support marine life. Researchers are studying its environmental effects, including its impact on ocean circulation and climate change. There is uncertainty about whether A23a will remain in place or drift again due to ocean currents.
