The conjunction that is best suited so as to join the given sentences is 'although'.

Hence, the correct answer is Option 1 i.e. Although the Election Commission has banned invoking the name of religion or community, however political leaders continue to use them so blatantly because they know that Muslims do have a say when it comes to elections.

Q:5 The correct answer is option 3 i.e. Although Prime Minister's announcement on 5 June, World Environment Day, that India would eliminate single-use plastics by 2022 is a dramatic statement of intent, it is not yet evident that the deadline is based on a considered plan to make this actually happen.

The given question is to find the sentence which when connected using the correct sentence structure forms a complete single sentence without altering the meaning of the sentence.

Sentence Connectors Questions - Get 10 MCQs with Solutions

Option 1 is incorrect as the first few fragments of the line are not a part of the original set and cannot be included as such.

Option 2 is incorrect as it seems to say that the claim of India eliminating single-use plastic is not dramatic. This is opposite of what the original set states.

Option 4 is incorrect as the sentence structure is incorrect as the statement of intent is to be elaborated in the beginning and not the end. Also, the use of the word basis is incorrect and should be replaced with base.

Option 3 is correct and states everything right grammatically as well as contextually.

Q:6 The correct answer is option 1 i.e. The problems of implementation of a plastic ban are not unique to India. Across the world, bans on plastic and taxation of plastic bags have achieved mixed results, with many of them failing even in the developed world.

The given question is to find the sentence which when connected using the correct sentence structure forms a complete single sentence without altering the meaning of the sentence.

Option 2 is incorrect as it seems to imply that the bans were imposed on plastics after they failed in the developed nations which is not the case as per the original set.

Option 3 is incorrect as it is not meaningful in terms of structure and grammar.

Option 4 is incorrect as it changes the entire meaning of the original set and seems to imply that after failing in the developed nations, its implementation has been successful in India with some problems being common to the other nations.

Option 1 is correct and states everything right grammatically as well as contextually.

Q:7 The correct answer is option 2 i.e. (I) and (III).

The given question is to find the sentence which when connected using the correct sentence structure forms a complete single sentence without altering the meaning of the sentence.

'If' is used as a condition or supposition. Here the condition is the recent skirmish of the Galwan valley and the result is continuing to be discussed all over India. So, (I) and (III) will be that pair of sentences.

After connecting two sentences the final sentence will be

'If it wasn't for the current skirmishes in the Galwan Valley, Ladakh would continue to be discussed for its scenic beauty and be populated by tourists from all over India.'

Sentence Connectors Questions - Get 10 MCQs with Solutions

Q:8 The correct answer is option 4 i.e. Pakistan's general elections are scheduled to be held in July 2018. Contrary to the popular argument that the Pakistani military has revived complete dominance and hegemony over civilian and electoral politics, fewer people are now buying into the opinion in Pakistan that the military is somehow "better" than democracy.

The given question is to find the sentence which when connected using the correct sentence structure forms a complete single sentence without altering the meaning of the sentence.

Option 1 is incorrect as this changes the meaning of the original set and seems to imply that there is less number of people believing in the fact that elections are to be held in July.

Option 2 is incorrect as the statement seems to imply that there are arguments about when the Pakistan elections would be held while in the original set, this is a given fact and not an opinion. This changes the meaning of the set and is incorrect.

Option 3 is incorrect for the same reason stated for option 2.

Option 4 is correct and states everything right grammatically as well as contextually.

Q:9 The correct answer is option 1 i.e. When Uber and Lyft were voted out of Austin, Texas, for not agreeing to follow rules on background checks of their drivers as per the state's policy, their drivers were left in the lurch and It was the city that helped them bounce back by organising job fairs but if the same were to occur in India, the number of affected drivers would be far greater what with the apathy towards taxi drivers as a class of urban workers.

The given question is to find the sentence which when connected using the correct sentence structure forms a complete single sentence without altering the meaning of the sentence.

Option 2 is incorrect as the statement is totally incorrect and conveys a different meaning than that stated in the original set.

Option 3 is incorrect as the pronouns 'they' and 'them' mentioned in the beginning have not been specified before and the statement so formed is meaningless.

Option 4 changes the meaning of the statement by stating that the drivers did not agree for a background check which is incorrect and then they moved to India, which is absurd.

Option 1 is correct and states everything right grammatically as well as contextually.

Q:10 The correct answer is option 3 i.e. Meanwhile.

The connector that has to be used here should be based on a logical and contextual relationship between the two statements.

'Above all' represents an emphasis based connector.

'Meanwhile' represents a logical and contextual relationship.
