- Number of Vacancies: You'll notice that the cut-off marks tend to be inversely related to the number of job openings. When there are only a limited number of positions available, competition stiffens, and as a result, the cut-off scores may rise.

- Reservation Policies: Understand that the cut-off marks are significantly influenced by reservation policies and the number of applicants from different categories. If there's a larger pool of candidates from a particular category, it might lead to a lower cut-off score for that specific category.
- Regional Variations: Take into consideration that SSC CGL is conducted in various regions throughout India. The cut-off scores can also vary by region due to factors such as the number of candidates from a particular area and the available job openings there.
