The SSC CGL exam process usually follows these steps:

- Notification: The official notification is released on the SSC website, usually around September-October.
- Online Application: Apply through the SSC website within the stipulated dates.
- Tier-I Exam (Computer-Based): Typically held in the first half of the year.
- Tier-II Exam (Computer-Based): Qualified candidates from Tier-I proceed to Tier-II, held a few months after Tier-I.
- Tier-III Exam (Descriptive Pen and Paper): A descriptive English/Hindi writing test.
- Tier-IV (Skill Test/Computer Proficiency Test): For specific posts, a computer proficiency test (CPT) or document verification may be required.
- Final Result: The SSC declares the final results based on the cumulative performance in all tiers.
- Allocation of Posts: Successful candidates are allocated to various posts based on their preferences, merit, and vacancies.

SSC CGL 2024 Exam Pattern

The Staff Selection Commission of India will conduct the forthcoming SSC CGL 2024 examination in two distinct stages, or tiers. Furthermore, the recruitment examination for SSC CGL is comprised of Computer Based Examinations. Initially, Tier 1 encompasses a CBE within the SSC CGL assessment. Subsequently, Tier 2, also conducted as a Computer Based Exam, encompasses the SSC CGL Examination across three distinct papers.

Additionally, it is essential to note that while the Tier 1 examination is mandatory for all candidates, the Tier 2 examination is exclusively reserved for those who successfully clear the Tier 1 stage. For a more detailed and comprehensive overview, please refer to the infographic provided below:
