Explanation:

When we observe the given machine output, it is clear that there are ten three-digit numbers and they are changed step by step along with changing their position. In the first step, two different operations with different digits take place where the highest number is taken to the extreme left and the lowest number is taken to the extreme right after which 5 is added to both of them. In the second step, the second highest number is taken to the extreme left, and the second lowest number is taken to the extreme right where 5 is added to them. As a result, the two digits on which operations were done in step 1 move to their right and left respectively. The process continues till step 5.

Now we will solve the given input in a similar way for "Input: 322 790 560 458 333 460 895 980 129 249"

Step 5 is the last step.

Step4: 565 795 900 985 458 460 134 254 327 338
