Concept/Grammar rules	Applications
-----------------------	--------------

The theme of the question is to find a suitable connector so as to merge both the statements making them contextually coherent.

The two statements have a continuation in between them. So, the required connector is addition based.

"Owing to" is used in cause and effect type sentences.

"Alternatively" is used in contrast based sentences.

"And" and "Also" are used in addition based sentences.

"In particular" is used when an emphasis on the first sentence is needed.

So, out of "And" and "Also", the most suitable answer is "And" because the last word of the previous sentence and first word of the second statement denote organizations that are working together.
